

New Stoneham Showroom opens in Glasgow

April 7th 2011

The Scottish celebrity chef Nick Nairn has opened a new, state-of-the-art kitchen showroom for Kitchens International on Great Western Road in Glasgow. The expansion of the award-winning kitchen designers and retailer, Kitchens International, into Scotland's largest city shows there is demand for high quality, innovative kitchens in the west of Scotland.

Nick Nairn and his team showed how Kitchens International's kitchens can be used effectively and demonstrated some mouth-watering dishes and gave guests cooking tips and techniques.

The fabulous Stoneham display showcases many of their signature pieces, such as the Ebony Macassar centre panels at the front of the island, and the barrel ends in contrasting Lead colour, factory painted at Stoneham's dedicated finishing plant. The tall American Black Walnut cabinets with tinted mirror fronts draw the two colours together. Howard Stoneham, Stoneham' says "By bringing together traditional timbers with modern materials our designers are able to create a harmony that gives the designs a longevity while keeping them firmly in the contemporary genre."

STONEHAM Plc is a fifth generation family-owned firm spanning nearly 150 years of quality furniture making.

While the modern workshops near Sidcup in Kent are equipped with state-of-the-art CNC machinery and a dedicated paint plant, Stoneham has always retained the vital essence of craftsmanship in their DNA.
